Essay:

There are a lot of teenagers that would like to have a journey and a job during graduating from the high school and be a student in the university in many cities.

From my way of thinking, it is important to be independent from the childhood for children's developing. Parents should adjust their children to eat, to sleep, to bathe, to walk, to study alone from the far infancy. Additionally, the best choice to be autonomous for pupils is study abroad. They live and study away from their parents, relatives, friends, motherland. At the first time, it seems very dairy, boring and difficult. without all you have done, but eventually, children adapt and become independent. From my point of view, the best way to increase the child's future is allow them to be very independent. According to me, many parents are scared of dangers for their little people. Moreover, mothers and fathers do not allow to babies to come out alone. Many mothers follow their teenagers to school. For instance, there are a lot of towns in which parents, even most father do not let their children to go to school or to get off alone. It very bad affecton babies' psychologies. When they grow up, they become very impatient, irritated, uneducated and they do the same things with their babies in the future. it affects on their future generation and people of the their towns do not change. In conclusion, i do not think that to work and to travel from school years for children can affect badly.
